

Prospect.ac.uk

Prospects.ac.uk is the most used graduate careers website in the UK. It's official too. We know this because we're audited by the technical bods at ABCe twice a year so you can be confident in the numbers that we quote.

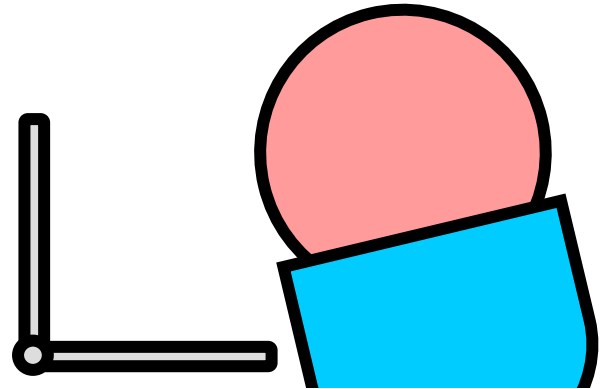

As well as the latest careers advice and course information, our website is a must-visit destination for job seekers. We've got the latest vacancies, employer profiles, job search, types of job, industry insights, application tips and much more...

We've also improved our employer profiles so you can promote your company from one central location. Company info, job vacancies, case studies, forthcoming events, FAQs – they're now all in one convenient place.

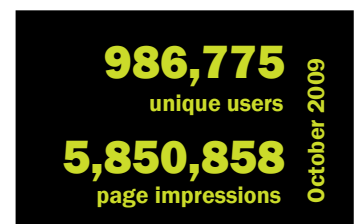

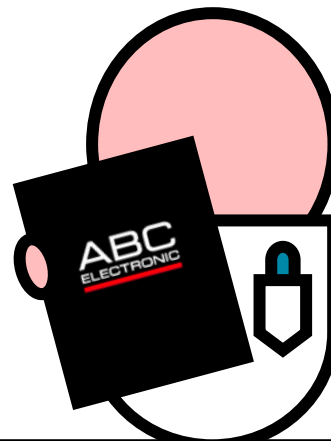

And if pictures can paint a thousand words, imagine what video can do! Bring your profile to life by posting videos to show potential applicants what life at company is like and what's on offer.

We've got much more planned for Prospects.ac.uk throughout the year – stay posted for more!

It's currently undergoing a number of changes behind the scenes that will make the user experience even better. For you, these changes will bring better locations to advertise and more opportunities to target specific groups of users.

We've already started this by introducing 21 Sectors to group together everything job-seekers need to know about particular areas of business in one hub. These include things like the latest vacancies, key bodies and organisations, typical job roles, industry insights and forums.
